Exercise #6
Goals and Objectives

In this group exercise you will identify goals and objectives for improving public access computing in your library.

1. Name three goals you'd like to achieve in the next year pertaining to your public access computing. (Example: Add 10 additional public access computers at the main library, add two Spanish-language computers at each library, add printing management at main library)

2. For each goal listed in #1, list three objectives that you will need to meet in order to achieve that goal. (Example: increase annual budget for public access computers by 20% next year and 15% each year thereafter, prepare presentation to Friends for adding print management system)

Managing Public Access Computers – Best Practices Spring 2006 - This material has been created by Lori Bowen Ayre for the Infopeople Project [infopeople.org], supported by the U.S. Institute of Museum and Library Services under the provisions of the Library Services and Technology Act, administered in California by the State Librarian. Any use of this material should credit the author and funding source.