Shay:Love Tap the Magic Tree!

Andrea Gowing:I love Don't Push the Button!By Cotter, Bill

Jennifer Santure:Thanks Chuck

Lela Wessner/Ross Price:will there be a certificate or a roster available for us government folks that have to record this for our standards?

Andrea Gowing:Tap the Magic Tree is awesome!

Val:I love Tap the Magic Tree as well! Kids love them and I just used it in my Tree/leaves storytime last week!

Kelly 2:Who wrote Tap the Magic Tree? I never heard of it.

Mary Augugliaro - Infopeople:Lela there will be a link at the end of the webinar so that you can get a certificate of attendance

Val:Christie Matheson

Amberthyme:Matheson, C

Sara White:I make every book an audience participation book :-D

Ingrid:Love Press here, the kids always enjoy it

Myleen DeJesus:EVERY storytime

Lela Wessner/Ross Price:Mary, Thanks. We have 3 people in the office sharing the computer. How will that be recorded for a cert

Erin Warnick:touch the brightest star is by christie matheson as well

Lela Wessner/Ross Price:?

Andrea Gowing:That is a great one too

Jennifer 2:i think there's an interactive book among Disney ones...build a snowman with Elsa (i believe)

Andrea Gowing:Don't Push the Button!

New Books for Storytime

October 20, 2016

Chart

Shannon Dailey:I used Tap the Magic Tree with a group of autistic kids--they loved the actions

Myleen DeJesus:There Are Cats in This Book (also a good title)

Beth Gallego:the Disney one is "Do You Want to Build a Snowman" by Calliope Glass

Jennifer 2:yes! that's it Beth

Mary Augugliaro - Infopeople:Lela, the certificate won't have your name on it so you can print out multiple copies guest 3:Ish and dot are great for inspiring young artists

Lela Wessner/Ross Price:Mary, Thanks!

Penny:we just got madeline-it is an adorable book!!!!

jane ampah:snatchabook is also along the lines of wanted..

Beth Gallego:Novak's "The Book with No Pictures" was a big hit with 1st-graders.

Lela Wessner/Ross Price:Mustache Baby is one of our favorites.

guest 3:I love the Book with No Pictures

alanna jones 2:no pictures is great fun

Amberthyme:More BEARS!

Elizabeth Flores:Nominate good new books you come across for the CLEL Bell award at <http://www.clel.org/suggest-a-title>

Jennifer 2:Beth, you & I are thinking along the same lines...I was thinking about that one. I love that one!

Andrea Gowing:Love The book wiuth no Pictures

Jennifer 2:there's one similiar to Tamara Palmer:We just got Ten Little Fingers, Two Small Hands also by Kristy Dempsey. I've put it aside for Tiny Tots storytime.

New Books for Storytime

October 20, 2016

Chart

Jennifer 2:"ten little toes" - ten little fingers

Michele:Blocks along with LEGO Play Days would be awesome!

Amberthyme:Yes!

Emily Metrock:Love Good News, Bad News by Jeff Mack :)

Jennifer:What are your favorite get ready songs

Amberthyme:If we get the LEGO Toddler StoryTime going again that would be an easy one to do

Marsha Wright:I love Jane Cabrera for this -- singing books!

Emily Metrock:Yes, love her Baa Baa Black Sheep book

Jennifer Santure:Yes, Jane Cabrera has a ton of good song based picture books

Susan Nilsson:i think it's pronounced "Tuke-tuke" at least in Guatemala it is...

Elizabeth Flores:I also like Maybe Mother Goose for sing

Kary Henry:Make sure to check out CLEL (Colorado Libraries for Early Literacy) and their website (clel.org) for great books for each practice with activities for the winning books.

Elizabeth Flores:Maybe Mother Goose by Esme Raji Codell

Sara White:In the pronunciation guide in the back, it says "took took"

Mary Goldberg:I love to use "The Seals on the Bus" it always starts the giggles ayoung:I love the Amazing Race! :)

Emily Metrock:Seals on the Bus is a hoot!

Courtney:Love Naoko Stoop! Her illustrations are wonderful!!!

Elizabeth Flores:Puddle by Hyewon Yum is a good new one for write, talk, and play

Beth Gallego:Does "Sing with Me" have the melodies, or just the words?

New Books for Storytime

October 20, 2016

Chart

Jennifer Santure:<http://us.macmillan.com/singwithme/naokostoop>

Tibby Wroten:My biggest complaint about the Naoko Stoop book is that it does not have any tunes listed to go with the songs!

Jennifer Santure:lots on youtube too, Jbrary is great Andrea:Youtube is your friend for songs like this!

Evan Kendrick:Jbrary is another great resource for songs! And they have videos.

Tibby Wroten:There were quite a few I wasn't familiar with. :/

Andrea Gowing:YouTube search for songs is great

Beth Gallego:I usually refer folks to Jbrary for tunes

Andrea Gowing:Love Jbrary

Shay:Love me some Jbrary!

Beth Gallego:Thank you!

Tamara Palmer:We include Narrative Skills in Background Knowledge and put print Motivation together with Print Awareness.

Evan Kendrick:Saroj is the fairy godmother of early literacy!

Julia MacDonell:Can you spell the name of the author you just said?

Evan Kendrick:Saroj Ghoting

Julia MacDonell:Thanks!

Kenza Abtouche:<http://www.alastore.ala.org/detail.aspx?ID=11542> i believe this is the book

heather:saroj ghoting

Kary Henry:/Her website is earlylit.net

Jennifer:I hope we will get a copy of this chat at the end. All of you have great suggestions!!!

New Books for Storytime

Chart

Pat Bashir:<http://www.earlylit.net/>

Amberthyme:Wordless books are great to recommend for parents that cannot read or feel very uncomfortable with their reading skills

Pat Bashir:Saroj is wonderful!

Mary Augugliaro - Infopeople:The webinar archive along with the chat transcript will be available here <https://infopeople.org/civCRM/event/info?reset=1&id=595>

Donna Reynolds:Love There's a Bear on My Chair!

Jennifer:YESSSS!!!!

Elizabeth Flores:storyblocks.org is another good site for song videos

Jennifer Santure:penguin problems- cute book

Michele:Penguin Problems is snarky and fun and PERFECT!

Mia:I LOVE Penguin Problems!

Sara White:Man, my library system doesn't have a LOT of these. Time for a giant purchase request!

Sara White:Are all of these already published, or are some forthcoming?

Kenza Abtouche:Sara, I just made a purchase request! (from SH/HP)

Jennifer Santure:Some are newly published

Emily Metrock:Love when the mouse jumps out in his underwear. Looking forward to the kids' reaction to that page! :)

Sara White:Oh good, Kenza! I might send Jackie a giant list with all the books I looked up that we didn't have yet :)

Jennifer 2:an example please?

Tamara Palmer:Books with alliteration are also good for Phono Awareness

New Books for Storytime

October 20, 2016

Chart

Alexis:Kenza and Sara, I was seeing the same thing. I was going to make a purchase request but I don't think I'll bog down Jackie

Rosanne North-Jack:Llama Llama books are great for phonological awareness Donna Reynolds:I do a mouse in the house flannel after that book and an action with children: Boing Boing Squeak....a bouncing mouse is in my house it's been there for a week. They love it!

alanna jones 2:anyone else have problem with sound?

Sara White:(oh yay, hi Alexis! I'll CC you guys on the email I send Jackie, maybe?)

Jennifer Santure:hehe

Amberthyme:Tanka Tanka Skunk! by Webb is good for this Lela Wessner/Ross Price:I love all Llama Llama books. My storytime people request it so I know they love them also.

Mary Augugliaro - Infopeople:If you are having audio issues, you can call in: 888-450-5996 passcode 264311#

Emily Metrock:Love the Bouncing Mouse song, but it is such an earworm! Had it stuck in my head yesterday :P

Jennifer 2:yes it does thank you

Jennifer Santure:Ah, I just used Bella's Fall Coat in today's storytime :)

Rose:Even for non English speakers?

Amberthyme:I add a definition if they don't understand

Jennifer Santure:same

Beth Gallego:I tell parents one of the reasons we read picture books is for the words that we don't hear every day.

Evan Kendrick:Yes. Even for non English speakers

guest 3:I had a little boy saying Vulture to me today

New Books for Storytime

October 20, 2016

Chart

Beth Gallego:Read "Caps for Sale" - What's a peddler?

Rose:I did not realize that, I find myself changing the words or explaining what it means.

Evan Kendrick:Explaining what it means is good.

Jennifer Santure:I think explaining is good

Evan Kendrick:And maybe offering some synonyms.

Emily Metrock:Hippopposites has great vocab words

Evan Kendrick:How else will they learn new vocabulary though if they only hear the same simple words they know?

Marsha Wright:Like Flotsam?

Celeste Edge:Love Orange Pear, Apple, Bear for basicvocabulary; then serve fruit!

Evan Kendrick:This is why it is best for people to speak and read in the language they know best with their children.

Kelly 2:Yaaasss OPAB!

Sara White:I love A Hungry Lion or A Dwindling Assortment of Animals

Beth:"King Baby" is great!!!

Emily Metrock:Oh, my gosh, I LOVE that book, Sara!

Donna Reynolds:How about: Is That Wise, Pig? by Jan Thomas

Kary Henry:They All Saw a Cat

Marsha Wright:Is Flotsam an example of narrative skills?

guest:I like Marta! Big and Small illus by angela dominguez

Rose:I saw that book at our Book Fair last week. Adorable!

Sally Fancher:Troll and the Oliver

New Books for Storytime

October 20, 2016

Chart

Elizabeth Flores:It Came in the Mail by Clanton

Kirsten Dees:I Don't Want to Be Big by Dev Petty

Mia:Was Still a Gorilla mentioned? That one was fun at storytime!

Sara White:I did Hungry Lion yesterday with the early literacy tip to parents to read books with words their kids won't necessarily understand to help build vocab

Tami:Monsters Go Night-Night by Aaron Zenz

karen guest:the black book of colors

karen guest:it's good for braille

Sara White:Puppies!!! by Kevan Atteberry

Jennifer 2:if kids aren't focused & you need them to sit..."criss-cross applesauce" always seem to work!

Valerie:I love the book Get Out of My Bath! by Nosy Crow

Sara White:Sorry, PUDDLES, not puppies, yeesh.

Sara White:Apparently cute animals are on my brain, lol.

Nancy 2:Little Red and the Very Hungry Lion

Marsha Wright:And isn't her new one Butterflies or Birds?

Amberthyme:Does anyone use Non-Fiction in their Storytimes?

Marsha Wright:Where puddles goes crazy over them?

Sally Fancher:yes

Amberthyme:Any favorites? There are some baby animal readers that look fun

Susan Nilsson:i use non-fiction... showing pictures and talking... like Pumpkin Circle

Sally Fancher:weather, animals, health NF

New Books for Storytime

October 20, 2016

Chart

Lisa Riggs 2:yes, we use non-fiction

Kelly Heaton:Pebble Plus series are great nonfic titles for storytime

Taarna:I love Old MacDonald had a Truck! So fun!

Odessa:I do use non-fic, just talking and showing pictures.

Amy:I use NF in every storytime. Favorite imprints: Pebble Plus, Seedlings

Michele:Old MacDonald Had a Truck is wonderful! Such a great retell of this song.

Tamara Palmer:Love Old MacDonald Had A Truck!

ayoung:I also like Pumpkin Circle for storytimes

Tyna Sloan:I use the 50/50 rule with fiction and non-fiction. (part of our common core in the school district)

Amberthyme:Big Bug by Cole has a different way to describe size

Monica:Gail Gibbons is my go-to for storytime non-fiction

Tyna Sloan:steve jenkins

Rose:P0544344

Paul Musser:Swim! Swim! by Proimos is a great book for a "friends" theme.

Tyna Sloan:semour simon

Teresa Innes:Watch the Pumpkin Circle video - it's brilliant!

Monica:Following directions

Dessa Gunning:this time of year I share The little old lady who was not afraid of anything is older but fun to read .

Teresa Innes:I always practiced introductions

Andrea Gowing:Lack of scissor skills is huge!

New Books for Storytime

October 20, 2016

Chart

Bree Herron:Counting to 100, basic math skills, alphabet, their names, parent's names, basic art cutting, gluing.

Amberthyme:Jenkins is fun, I usually use his books for class visits. I'll give him a try for ST

Kelly Heaton:Inocming K students need to know: rhyming, letter recognition, answers to basic questions like, "Why do w wash our hands?"

Shay:I have age appropriate scissors for that reason!

Celeste Edge:Please teach kindergarten students to open a milk carton

Tami:Simple basic facts - colors, letter names, animal sounds, etc.

guest 3:When I break out the scissors during Story Time. The parents are shocked heather:K teachers love that we talk to our parents about the 6 early lit skills

Donna Reynolds:Work on making choices in cafeteria and carrying lunch tray.

Monica:I've learned to only do scissors once I've gotten to know the parents, to easier talk them into it

Bree Herron:I struggle with getting my parents to let their kdis do crafts alone! I am constantly reminding them that it is for the kdis

Jennifer 2:i could use a refresher on opening a milk carton at times ;-)

Rose:P0544288

vscrivner:Sitting, being able to say what they need.

Monica:Milk cartons are tough

Susan Nilsson:I like using cutting from hole to hole on an index card to practice using scissors for the very beginners...

ASAUCEDA:SITTING IN A CIRCLE, LINING UP

Tami:zipping up a coat

Monica:Love the Lola/Leo books!

New Books for Storytime

October 20, 2016

Chart

Donna Takeuchi:Raising hand and waiting to be called on to speak, lining up

ASAUCEDA:KNOWING THEIR NAME,PARENTS NAME

Celeste Edge:Our principal used to spend the first two weeks on his knees in the lunchroom

ASAUCEDA:Knowing their colors, shapes, tune of alphabet song

Tyna Sloan:Real sisters sounds like a tear jerker

Ellie Epperson:Anyone else have a more conservative crowd that don't want diverse books?

Jennifer Santure:No...

Sara White:Do they anyway!!

Sara White:them

Ellie Epperson:No just my stroytime parents

Evan Kendrick:Children need to see themselves reflected in books!

Ellie Epperson:not a general statement

Susan Nilsson:I love my diverse and accepting audience!

alanna jones:i agree

Evan Kendrick:They don't need to read those books then.

Kary Henry:All children deserve to be seen in books. This is a way we can expose children to the world around them.

Bree Herron:Ellie, I see that with some of my parents, and espeically about kids with special needs

Susan Nilsson:People with 2 moms exist and they deserve to hear stories about them

Susan Nilsson:*themselves

Pat Bashir:I think that is the best crowd to introduce diverse books. Their kids need to be exposed to multiculturalism.

New Books for Storytime

October 20, 2016

Chart

Evan Kendrick:That's why we are the public library!

Penny:I agree- Children need to see themselves reflected in books!

Andrea:The more I use diverse books in my ST, the more diverse my audience becomes. It's amazing and beautiful.

Pat Bashir:I agree Andrea!

Kenza Abtouche:I worry a lot about all the books I do that have mothers and fathers and so many of the songs that we do that reinforce that idea, but in my storytime, I wouldn't be able to change them for my storytime because a lot of my families are very conservative.

Kary Henry:Andrea, well put!

Sarah Jo Zaharako:Music Is... by Brandon Stosuy. Just came out this month. Many cultures are celebrated including girls wearing hijabs. It's a board book.

Beth Gallego:Also, you (general you) don't know what the home situation of the families in storytime are. There could be kids with 2 moms or 2 dads in your storytime, and nobody knows.

Jeff T.:I echo what Pat says: everyone can learn by exposure to diversity

Amberthyme:Flannelboard stories can be made with more multicultural families than may be found in the original book vscrivner:Children begin to see at there are all kinds of people as they meet other people outside their community.

Patricia Padovano:Andrea, that is so true. Exposure is very important.

Tyna Sloan:Rudas= rude Horrendous hermanitas = horrendous little sisters

Evan Kendrick:In the current climate, we need diverse books more than ever.

Megan Fox:Ming Goes to School is a very sweet story. Used it in our outreach--theme was going to school
